

Remembering Al Carter, June 2017

On a very wet Tuesday 6th June, nine walkers and three runners met at Osmotherly to commemorate the anniversary of the untimely early death of our colleague, and friend, Alan Carter.

The walkers proceeded into Oakdale to the tree, where Alan's ashes were spread which is adjacent to the Cleveland Way, above the old reservoir on the climb to square corner.

The photograph shows the rather wet walkers enjoying a Blackwell's pie, which was a favourite of Alan's, and a beer under the canopy of the tree.
